

APPETIZERS.

His Opportunity Came.

Grocer Chase lived in a little house at the rear of his store and was interrupted one morning at breakfast by the clerk who usually opened the store.

"We were robbed last night, Mr. Chase! We were robbed!"

"Robbed! robbed! you don't mean it?"

"Yes I do. Somebody entered the store last night by the front door and took every cent there was in the till."

"Great Heavens, I'm ruined! But stop! John, how much money was there in the till last night?"

"Fourteen dollars and thirty cents."

"John, go to the police office at once, and enter the report on the records that I've been robbed of $1,200, and that my family narrowly escaped being butchered. Meantime, I'll drop down to Lawyer Haddock's and have him draw an assignment. I've been waiting for this for years."

"All right, sir!" (Exit.)

"Maria, give me the fourteen dollars; you may keep the rest."

A Remarkable Youth.

"Have you any offspring?" inquired the severe, longhaired passenger, through his nose, of a stranger by his side.

"Oh, yes, sir," was the polite reply, a "son."

"Ah, indeed! Does he use tobacco?"

"Never touches it in any form."

"I'm glad to hear that. Tobacco is monstrously injurious. Does he indulge in spirituous liquors?"

"Never tasted a drop in his life."

"Excellent. Stay out nights?"

"No, sir. Never thinks of going out after supper."

"I'm very much pleased to know this, sir. Your son is a remarkable young man."

"Oh, he's not a young man. He's a two months' old baby."—[Life.]

Pat's Way.

Pat—"Soy, how soon will a train be here going East?"

Station Agent at Albion—"The through freight passes in thirty minutes, but won't stop."

Pat—"Will it go slow so I can jump on?"

Albion Station Agent—"I don't know, but it will slack down here at the crossing so you can get on."

Pat—"What crossing?"

Albion Station Agent—"Oh, the one about half a mile west of here."

Pat (relieved)—"Well, if I don't get on here I will go down and meet it and get on at the bridge."

Demanded a Fair Return.

A French peasant woman suddenly exclaimed one afternoon:

"My poor little rabbits I have forgotten to feed them. Dear little creatures!"

A Parisian who was present replied with a sarcastic smile:

"Those dear little creatures you mean to stew in onions, don't you?"

"Yes," replied the woman, with the utmost simplicity, "I feed them, and it's only fair they should feed me too."

Only Room for One More.

The conductors of the Paris omnibuses are witty as well as polite.

The other day a woman of immense size, sitting on the sidewalk and hailed a passing vehicle.

"Is there room for me?" she asked.

"No, madam," replied the conductor, with great suavity. "There is only room for one."

Truth and Fancy.

"There is an exquisite lucidness and an abiding spiritual quality about Signor Thompson's playing," said the Boston girl.

"Well, there's a heap o' lucidness and spirits about Thompson himself," ejaculated the fair girl's parent. (Satis and ammonia.)

More Confidence.

Moore: "What a queer fellow Fibber is! He just told me that he never told the truth."

Simmons: "Did he really tell you that?"

"He did, for a fact."

"Well, then, I have more confidence in his veracity than I had before."

Freedom Shrieked.

"Say, pa, listen: 'When Freedom from her mountain height unfurled her banner to the air.' What do they call Freedom 'her' for?" queried a boy who was learning the piece to speak at a school exhibition.

"You are too young to understand. Wait till you get married, my son."

A Shrewd Domestic.

Intelligent Housemaid: "Oh, please, Miss, there was a young gentleman called when you was out. He didn't leave no card, Miss, but I can show you who he is, 'cause there are three of his photographs in your album."—[Shoe and Leather Reporter.]

Just Her Size.

"I think I wear two's," she simpered to the shoemaker; "do I not?"

"Yes, ma'am," said the honest dealer, "you wear two's."

Then, under his breath:

"One on each foot."

Why He Didn't.

DeBoggs: "I know how to manage my wife."

Bagley: "You do? Then why don't you manage her?"

DeBoggs: "She won't let me."—[Philadelphia Call.]

No Proof as Yet.

The statement that cigarette smoking induces softening of the brain is purely theoretical and can not be verified until people with brains to soften attempt the experiment.—[Chicago Times.]

A Return Call.

Jones (to dinner): "Ah, call again." Dinner: "See here, I don't like the idea of calling on you so often."

Jon's (serenely): "Quite natural—wait until I call on you."—[Judge.]

No Copy Wanted.

Office Boy (to editor): "There is a man outside who says that he has a bill to present."

Editor: "Say to him that his manuscript is respectfully declined."
